Donnette E Davis

Elasmosaurus had a body like a turtle and a neck like a snake. It lived in water and laid its eggs on land. Its feet were like big paddles. Elasmosaurus caught fish and turtles in its sharp teeth as it went swimming along. This dinosaur was about 50 feet long. Its neck was four times as long as a man's body.

TRACHODON
(TRAK O DON)

Trachodon had a bill like a duck, and hundreds of teeth. It ate water plants. This dinosaur could walk on two legs or four legs. Trachodon was also a good swimmer. It usually stayed in deep water where meat-eating dinosaurs could not catch it. Trachodon lived about 80 million years ago.
