Ideas For Buying Fun Alphabet Clothing For Kids

By Molly Ridenhour

The Alphabet line is not just for babies. They have a wide-range of toddler and children clothing, too. However, if you want to make some smart buying choices there are some good tips you might want to keep in mind.

Sizing Clothes for Toddlers and Kids

When you have a baby, you should choose Alphabet clothes that are double the size of your baby's current age. For example, a four month old baby would receive 8 month old clothing. However, things change when your child hits the age of 2. You certainly wouldn't want to continue doubling his or her age when buying clothes.

The best idea is to purchase clothing that is one or two sizes larger than what your child currently wears. There are a couple of good reasons for this when shopping for Alphabet brand clothes. Remember that Alphabet is a European brand so the sizes are going to run a little different than the ones in the United States. By buying a little larger, you increase the odds of getting something that will fit. Plus, larger sizes are better because children can grow into them and can wear them more comfortably.

Laundering and Materials

Cotton clothes are a great choice for toddlers and kids and is the fabric of choice for the Alphabet brand. Even as kids get older, they tend to still get messy and cotton is much easier to take care of than other fabrics.

You also want to make sure to choose machine washable clothes. Although that is not always true of high-end European clothing for children, but it is true of the Alphabet brand. Most, if not all, of their clothes can be washed in a regular machine. That's an advantage because you'll still find yourself doing a lot of laundry once your baby has grown up. You don't want to be spending a fortune on dry cleaning for toddler attire.

Let Children Help

Kids develop clothing preferences at an early age. Babies may not be able to help you decide which clothes they want to wear but toddlers and kids can. This is an advantage for shopping online when you're buying Alphabet outfits. You can sit with your child on your lap at the computer and pick out outfits without having to deal with crowds or travels.

When you allow your children to have input, they are more likely to feel as if they are able to express themselves and make choices over their own lives. That's a great way to help give your child a strong foundation for their future.

Choose Mix & Match Clothes

Another idea is to pick separates instead of ready-made outfits. By having skirts and pants that can go with a wide range of shirts and tops, you'll expand your child's wardrobe exponentially without having to buy a lot more clothes. Plus, if you purchase brands like Alphabet the clothes will last you long enough that wearing them frequently won't cause them to be destroyed the way cheaper clothes might.

Tips For Buying Alphabet Clothes For Babies

By Molly Ridenhour

If you've never heard of Alphabet children's clothes, then you're in for a real treat when you begin shopping for your new baby's clothing. Alphabet is one of the top French clothing makers of kids' apparel. They are known not only for being stylish and fun but also for creating clothes that are made of the highest quality materials and that are built to last. As any parent knows, that's definitely worth paying a little extra for. However, if you're going to start buying clothing now, there are few tips that you'll want to keep in mind whether you're shopping for Alphabet or other brands.

Picking the Right Size

As with any age group, size matters. With babies, however, choosing the right size can be difficult. You can't very well take him or her into the dressing room even after he or she is born, at least not for awhile. Plus, the size ranges on baby clothes are done in terms of the baby's age. However, most of us know that there can be a world of difference in size between one three month old and another.

So what should a parent do? The golden rule is to buy sizes that are about double your child's current age. That means if you have a 6 month old right now you'd want to buy clothes for a 12 month old. Of course, they may be a bit big at first. That's fine because babies grow quickly. It's the too small Alphabet clothes you want to avoid.

Also, don't worry about investing a ton of money in newborn clothing. Your babies will almost have outgrown it on the day they are born.

Picking the Right Materials

One of the best things about Alphabet is that almost all of their clothes are made from cotton. Cotton is one of the best clothes to choose for babies because it is soft and comfortable for your child. Plus, cotton is absorbent and stains come off of it much easier than with other types of fabric. That's a definite plus because babies tend to make lots of messes on themselves.

Picking the Right Laundering Directions

When people buy baby clothes, they don't always look at the label but they should. Many of the more upscale baby brands require dry cleaning or hand washing which just isn't practical for new parents. That's another advantage to Alphabet because most of their clothes are completely fine being machine washed. You'll just want to follow the instructions on the label.

Machine washing is always going to be a huge time and money saver when it comes to babies. You'll find yourself doing a lot more laundry but that goes with the territory.

Picking the Safest Garments

If you've ever looked at some baby clothes and thought about the dangers of all those small pieces, then you're not alone. One of the other reasons why people love Alphabet clothes so much is that they are designed to be safe for babies and that can give parents peace of mind as well as stylish children.
