Construction Toys and Puzzles as Toddler Toys

By Chris Peace

When considering construction toys or puzzles as options for toddler toys, most parents might give them a pass thinking that they might not be appropriate for their young toddler to play with. This thinking however is not entirely true. Yes, toddlers might not be able to reassemble parts to form the picture on the box, but they can definitely assemble the parts to form something. Construction toys and puzzles are great toddler toys and learning aids for your kids. They stimulate a child's mental and motor skills encouraging problem solving, imaginative thinking etc.

Types of construction toddler toys

The best kind of construction toddler toy would be interlocking blocks. These blocks are large and fairly simple. They fit by a child simply shunting them together. These construction blocks can also be used to increase a child's language and math capabilities. Language capabilities are increased by encouraging a child to speak about what he or she is building with the construction toddler toy and math capabilities can be increased by encouraging him to count the blocks etc.

Guidelines to picking up construction toddler toys

There are fairly simple rules that you need to follow while buying a construction toddler toy for your young one.

Make sure that the blocks are the interlocking type and not the fitting type. This is important as a toddler's motor skills are not yet fully developed. Once you see that your child can handle the interlocking toddler toys with ease you can shift to the fitting type.

Make sure that the blocks are large.

Remember that your toddler does not have the capability to copy and build something from scratch. Therefore while choosing a construction toddler toy for your little one it might be simpler to opt for something that already has a base construction to which a toddler can add on.

Puzzle toddler toys

Toddler puzzles are also a great way to encourage a toddler to think. They are also freely available at most toy stores. Like construction toddler toys, toddler puzzles also help develop motor, language and math skills. These puzzles generally have 2 to 4 pieces as part of the set and are made of durable materials like thick cardboard, wood and plastic. If you are looking for such puzzles you will find them at Smalltime Child. Smalltime Child has an interesting animal puzzle set called Baby Animal Pairs by Eeboo which will be perfect for your toddler.

Helpful tips for buying puzzle toddler toys

Ensure that the puzzle set has large pieces

If possible try and ensure that the base of the puzzle has pictures corresponding to the pieces of the puzzle. This makes it easier for the child to piece the puzzle together.

Puzzles made out of wood would be the best option as they make for durable toddler toys.

Try and pick up a puzzle set that has some sort of pegs on the pieces to facilitate easier handling for your toddler.

Wooden Toddlers Toys For Hours of Play

By Christopher Peace

What are the best wooden toddlers toys for the money?

There are several different wooden toddlers toys that are a good deal and offer hours of play for your child. There is a Medieval Castle Building set that will keep your little one busy for hours. For those who like walking toys, there is always the Heirloom Wooden Walking Duck that quacks. These can offer your child hours of amusement and since they are made of wood, you can bet that these toys are durable and will take a lot of abuse without breaking. Wood is a good durable toy material that will cost less to manufacture than other toys on the market.

Why choose wooden toddlers toys?

Wooden toddlers toys that are made with wood tend not to break easily. They are also made from one of the sturdiest materials and will not shatter bend or warp. They are also more cost effective to make than say, plastic. Plastic breaks, wood won't. You won't have the safety issues that you would with plastic toys. Therefore using these wooden toys will be safer to use than other toys. They will last longer and give more hours of enjoyment to your toddler, allowing them to use their imagination.

How many different types of wooden toddlers toys are there?

There are many different types of wooden toddlers toys that range from blocks to walkers to puzzles. There is a wide range of toys that include wood in their basic composition. Since wood is a good base for building all sorts of toys, from puzzles to walking toys, you have a wider range than you would with most other types of materials that are used today. So there is a wide range of toys that are available for a toddler using wood material.

My toddler likes puzzles, so would a toddlers toys puzzle be a good idea?

Yes, the toddlers toys puzzles are a wonderful choice. The ones that are made of wood also offer the stimulation of a different surface to play with. So this play will stimulate the senses while allowing hours of fun play time. These puzzles allow your toddler unlimited hours of play and exploration. Learning to put the pieces together also helps your toddler build problem solving techniques. So this is a wonderful learning game that your toddler will enjoy for a long time to come.

How do I choose the right wooden toddlers toys?

When choosing wooden toddlers toys, you need to bear in mind the age of the child in question. Look at what your toddler is interested in, such as blocks or puzzles for example. Then when browsing toys, make certain that they are approved for the toddler's appropriate age group. Then you will be able to choose the right toy for your toddler and will also have the knowledge that this toy is solidly built, will weather all sorts of abuse and will provides hours of playtime fun that your child will enjoy and get lots of use out of the toy in question.
